To whom this e-mail may concern,

I beleive that the settlement made with microsoft is unfair. I feel that Microsoft has been portrayed as something it is not. Micorsoft is not monopoly they just make a good product. The reason that a company like Netscape who makes a browser that competes with Microsoft's Internet explorer is losing market share is not due to monopolistic practices bey Microsoft, but due to the fact that they have created a inferior product to that of microsoft's. I beleive that most of these companys instead of producing a good product they are attempting to take down microsoft by underhanded means of claiming they are a monopoly. I beleive the whole case brought against microsoft is wrong and I hop eyou use your great wisdom to rectify this situation.

Sincerly,
Daniel Grm
